

Archaeology lab to be held at the Wall Center for Archaeological Research

Dub Hord, Morganton resident and Exploring Joara Foundation board member, shows an arrowhead excavated at the Berry site.

Staff reports

Published: March 5, 2010

David Moore, Warren Wilson College archaeologist and senior archaeologist for the Exploring Joara Foundation, will host a volunteer archaeology lab from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Wall Center for Archaeological Research at 220 New St., Morganton. Participants will learn how to conduct basic cataloging processes with material excavated from the Berry site during the 2009 field school.

The volunteer lab is open to all members of the Exploring Joara Foundation.

No experience is necessary.

Contact Moore at 713-7520 or dmoore@warren-wilson.edu.

For more information about the Exploring Joara Foundation and how to become a member, go to exploringjoara@att.net or call 439-2483.

<http://www2.morganton.com/content/2010/mar/05/archaeology-lab-be-held-wall-center-archaeological/>